KOSHER!

We came across this friendly chap when we were out and about in the city centre recently.

Danny, 59, a driver from London visiting friends here said: "Newcastle is quieter than London, but it's a great city to visit with loads going on. I ate at a Kosher Bakery in Newcastle yesterday and it was really great. It's normally quite hard to find a good range of Kosher food but Newcastle has quite a few and they're really good. You should try them."

REMEMBER WHEN?

Nostalgia has recently been the order of the day here at NE1 magazine HQ and here's one from @turnipheadpic on Twitter, who wrote "Northumberland Street Newcastle Upon Tyne c. 1985." We're not saying which member of the team said it was just like yesterday (Gary Ramsay). Suffice to say, the rest of us weren't born. Honest.

WORLD CUP FEVER

Good news, football fans. If you don't have a ticket to Rio for the World Cup there are plenty of opportunities to catch the matches that matter in NE1. England's first game against Italy kicks off at 11pm on June 14, when we'll be at Lane7 (www.lane7.co.uk) where the downstairs room will be converted into a 120-seater World Cup venue. For game two against Uruguay on June 19 (8pm KO) we'll be at the O2 Academy (www.o2academynewcastle.co.uk) and for game three against Costa Rica on June 24 (5pm KO), we'll be at The Sage Gateshead (www.sagegateshead.com). After that? Let's not tempt fate!

AND FOR THOSE WITH FUNNY-SHAPED BALLS...

The Rugby World Cup hits St James' Park in October 2015 with South Africa v Scotland (Oct 3), defending champions New Zealand v Tonga (Oct 9), and Scotland v Samoa (Oct 10). The ticket application window is open September 12-29. All of England's group matches will be played at Twickenham. St James' Park, from £50 (children £15) www.rugbyworldcup.com

LUCY LEWD...

Ladies! An all-star cast headed by Gary Lucy has been announced for a new production of The Full Monty at the Theatre Royal in October.

Dancing on Ice winner and former Eastenders star Lucy will play Gaz in the production written by the Oscar-winning writer of the original film, Simon Beaufoy. Released in 1997, the iconic British film about six out-of-work Sheffield steelworkers is one of the most successful British films of all time. The stage show features songs from the film by Donna Summer, Hot Chocolate and Tom Jones, plus those memorable dance routines. Saucy! Theatre Royal, October 27-November 1 from £12, www.theatreroyal.co.uk

STEAMING

The monthly Boiler Shop Steamer is a mecca for music and food lovers, with bars, street food stalls and entertainment. The next event features NARC. magazine's line-up on the Saturday, with soulful funk from Simon And The Sundowners and high energy world music from Backyard Rhythm Orchestra, guaranteed to keep you dancing.

IN THE STUDY, WITH THE CANDLESTICK...

Budding Val McDermids and Ian Rankins will be out in force for Crime Story - a two-day festival at Northumbria University in collaboration with New Writing North for established and aspiring crime writers.

The festival features discussion and workshops focusing on a fictional crime created especially for the weekend by Ann Cleeves (Shetland, Vera) and how it weaves its way through the criminal justice system. Intriguing!

SMART THINKERS

TEDx, which spreads ideas through short, powerful talks on subjects from science to global issues, brings its TEDx talks to Newcastle University on June 8. Speakers include Prof Sugata Mitra, who worked on the Hole in the Wall project, which placed a free-access computer in a wall in a Delhi slum. The experiment inspired Vikas Swarup to write the novel Q&A, which was eventually turned into Slumdog Millionaire. Newcastle University, June 8, www.ncl.ac.uk

ONE MORE STEP BEYOND...

Madness have announced a new UK tour and a visit to Metro Radio Arena in December.

The tour is the latest landmark for the band, which until a few years ago was just another 80s memory. Ahead of the December tour the Madness House Of Fun Weekender returns to Minehead in November, preceded by European Summer Madness with appearances in Mallorca and Ibiza, France, Italy, Russia and The Netherlands.

BEST FOR CLOTHES?

I've discovered lots of boutiques thanks to NE1's Newcastle Fashion Week. I'm usually on a tight budget and TK Maxx never lets me down!

BEST FOR FOOD AND DRINK?

An old favourite is Kafe Neon on the Big Market. I can't resist the tzatziki and the cocktails.

BEST FOR MUSIC?

The Sage Gateshead is incredible. I love Hoochie Coochie for intimate soul gigs. I saw Jocelyn Brown there and still have goosebumps!

BEST FOR PERFORMANCE?

It's hard to beat Theatre Royal. I've just seen Dirty Dancing, which was absolutely amazing!

BEST COFFEE?

Pumphrey's - the smell from their Grainger Market stall is always incredible!

SPANISH AYES

Cinema performance group Screenage Kicks pops up at ¡VAMOS! Festival with the outrageous 1980s Spanish sex comedy Tie Me Up! Tie Me Down! at a pop-up Spanish New Wave fancy dress party with drag queens, flamenco dancers, 80s DJs and more.

¡VAMOS! events this year also include a Mardi Gras performance; a festival family picnic; and the return of Mexican wrestling. There'll also be pop-up restaurants, music, family events, and art from international artists.

For an idea of what you can expect at the Screenage Kicks event, refer to the pic above from its recent Reservoir Dogs party at the Boiler Shop Steamer. The event included Reservoir Hot Dogs, Sliced Ear Burgers, Reservoir Doggette Dancers, Reservoir Dogs Band playing the entire soundtrack, and actors recreating big scenes.

ALL A BLUR

Were you a Blur fan or an Oasis aficionado? Or was it all about Suede? Or Pulp?

Who cares – if you were into Britpop you'll be into this bite-sized theatre performance from Mixtape, which is taking Britpop songs and, using only the lyrics, creating micro-plays no longer than the tracks that inspire them.

Part theatre and part pop quiz, the audience gets to guess the songs and the bands which inspire each short for the chance of winning a coveted Golden Mixtape. Unmissable!

BUILDING BLOCKS

Have you ever walked along the Quayside or through Grainger Town and wondered what it once looked like? Newcastle University's Newcastle City Futures event, May 23-June 10, offers insights into developments which have shaped the city, focusing on the Metro and the Byker Wall, the redevelopment of St James' Park, and new projects such as the Stephenson Quarter. HERE SHE COMES AGAIN

THE GREAT DOLLY PARTON HEADS TO NEWCASTLE ANY MINUTE NOW. JANE PIKETT CAN'T HELP SMILING...

Polish up those rhinestones, people, Dolly Parton - the most successful country singer of all time and probably the loveliest person on the planet - rolls into town any minute now.

Dolly, darling of the country scene and the woman we most want to be our fairy godmother (how lucky is Miley Cyrus?) hits town on June 14 with what we are reliably informed will be the most diamante ever seen on one stage at one time.

At 68 she still looks like a Barbie doll (the work is good...) and her gorgeous, glitzy life is a far cry from her early years, one of 12 kids of a 'dirt poor' tobacco farmer who paid the doctor who helped deliver her with a bag of oatmeal. Probably one of the happiest people on the planet, she's been married for 48 years and tells beautiful stories on stage which are as much a part of her show as her songs, of which she has written and recorded more than 3,000.

This tour features songs from her new album Blue Smoke as well as her best-known hits, the only question being, having sold 100m albums during her 45-year career, how does she choose what to sing each show?

Nip onto the Metro Radio Arena

website, and you're treated to a charming eight-second video of Dolly declaring how excited she is to be coming to Newcastle. No doubt she has recorded the same message for every town and city she's visiting this tour, but she still makes it sound sincerely meant; another bit of Dolly magic for us all to treasure.

The Dolly brand machine now includes something called Dixie Stampede - a family dinner attraction with live animals and pyrotechnics; the Dollywood theme park (we kid ye not); Splash Country water adventure park (the website features Dolly in a wetsuit!); Pirates Voyage dinner and show (like Pirates of the Caribbean with songs); and Dolly Parton's Imagination Library charity, which gets kids reading.

"Every time I come to Europe I'm just as excited as I was my very first time, which was many, many years ago," she says. "We always have such a good time and I've put together a lot of things for this show that I think the fans will love. We hadn't planned to come back so soon, but we got so much fan mail last time, I thought 'Well, why not. If they're having a good time, and we always do, let's just do it.'" Dolly, we just can't wait!

ROCKET MAN

DERREN BROWN – HUMAN OR ALIEN?
JANE PIKETT ISN'T SURE

Who, or what, is Derren Brown? His Twitter profile claims he is Prince of Eternia and Defender of the Secrets of Castle Grayskull, a disliker of blue cheese, and 'just behind your right ear'.

Having witnessed his unique blend of 'magic, suggestion, psychology, misdirection and showmanship' on a previous visit to the Theatre Royal, I suspect he is alien, his claims of an unremarkable suburban upbringing a front for a plot to hypnotise the human race into gifting Earth to the Zygons. But calling from Llandudno on a Tuesday afternoon, he's disarmingly friendly and distinctly human.

This is what I learn: His passport describes him as an 'entertainer'; he used to be a Christian but he doesn't believe in God anymore; he's an accomplished portrait painter; he likes parrots; and he finds it really hard to answer the question, 'what would you do if you couldn't fail?'

"Gosh, that's tooooooo hard! No failure would mean no risk, and that'd be paralysing. I'd like to say I'd learn to play piano, but shouldn't you say you'd change the world? Great question; I'm going to have to think more about this."

He's been on the telly for years now, since 2000 in fact, when his show Derren Brown: Mind Control was first broadcast. Wikipedia calls him an 'illusionist, mentalist, trickster, hypnotist, painter, writer, and sceptic'. Ask him for one word to sum himself up and he settles for 'magician', but then starts listing all the others and a few more before admitting he defies categorisation.

He's 43, lives in London with his partner, designer Marc Hagan Guirey, read German and Law at Bristol Uni, and fell into his career through an interest in magic and hypnotism.

He is also patron of the charity Parrot Zoo Trust. "Parrots are fascinating; I just love them," he says. "If you met one, you'd know." He has a pet parakeet called Rasputin, which he says is "a bit like a toddler. You know, just very interesting. A toddler who can fly."

He says he went through a phase when he was younger of dressing "a bit like a parrot in really bright clothes and a cape. I was a bit of an attention-seeker then, but I've got over that now," he says.

His best decision was coming out, he says, which he did a few years ago and was surprised to find it didn't attract nearly so much attention as he'd feared. His best mistake was, he says, remaining in the closet so long, "because it gave me the time to focus on work."

He's writing a book about happiness, which he says is achieved by letting go of things you can't control, and he says we all need something in our life which is 'deep and intense', not necessarily God. And with that, he's off to re-join his spaceship. Or was it all an illusion?

ROCK ROYALTY

Anthemic rock gods Kings of Leon grace the St James' Park stage on May 31 ahead of headlining the Isle of Wight Festival.

With support from White Lies and The Horrors, the multi-Grammy and Brit award-winning Tennessee rockers arrive in the UK hot on the heels of the worldwide success of their sixth album Mechanical Bull. The gig represents a big return to live music at St James', which in the past has hosted the likes of Queen, The Rolling Stones, and Bob Dylan, but hasn't seen a live act since Rod Stewart in 2007. St James' Park, May 31 from £32, www.nufc.co.uk

SINGALONG A GARETH

Warm up your vocal chords, folks... housewives' favourite Gareth Malone brings his new choir to Newcastle on May 30.

Following a nationwide search for young singers, Gareth Malone's Voices are on a UK tour. This latest Malone-manufactured ensemble follows the success of the Military Wives Choir and popular BBC shows The Choir and Sing While You Work, which take first-timers to extraordinary levels of success and have led to a nationwide revival in community singing. City Hall, May 30, from £22, www.newcastlecityhall.org

POKER FACES AT THE READY

Little Monsters rejoice...Lady Gaga's new show, artRAVE: The ARTPOP Ball is coming to Newcastle.

Newcastle is one of four extra UK shows added to the world tour - probably the most outrageous yet - and the stage is designed to bring Gaga closer than ever to her adoring acolytes with runways stretching into the audience from the main stage. You have been warned...

TOON TUNES WITH PAUL BROWN, TINY LIGHTS RECORDINGS

For a city of its size and location, Newcastle offers the discerning punter a good selection of gigs.

That's largely down to an array of active promoters and venues willing to take a chance on brilliant bands, with current listings including some incredible names like Swans, Eagulls and St Vincent. As promoters, we're blessed with incredibly helpful and passionate people running venues, sound desks and magazines which facilitate our flights of fancy.

I tend to focus my booking eye on the kind of bands who are more at home at the Head of Steam than the City Hall; messy indiepop bands on their first tour or out-of-town bands who've just released an LP not enough people love yet. Recent highlights include Scott and Charlene's Wedding, Tyrannosaurus Dead and The Spook School.

It's a tough job balancing the books (or even looking at them sometimes), but that's the eternal problem of putting gigs on.

None of us are expecting (or even trying) to make our fortune, but if you can bring a brilliant band to Newcastle then it's worthwhile, and if a couple of people fall in love with them, that's a lovely bonus.

WE'RE IN FASHION!

NE1'S NEWCASTLE FASHION WEEK, MAY 9-17,
PRESENTED A RIOT OF STYLE ENJOYED BY
FASHION FANS AND FAMOUS FACES

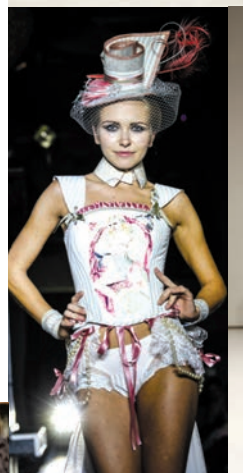

NE1's Newcastle Fashion Week 2014 was a wonderful riot of fashion and fun kicked off by the Me & Mrs Jones DJ set featuring Sophie Ellis Bextor and her husband Richard Jones.

Fresh from the release of her new album Wanderlust and her UK tour, Sophie teamed up with Richard, guitarist with The Feeling, for an exclusive DJ set at Bonbar, kick-starting the week's proceedings in style.

This year's event dominated the city during the week May 9 - 17 with catwalks, retail offers, VIP events and a healthy smattering of celebrities thrown in for good measure.

Catwalk shows at the Comapny Magazine Presents event were hosted by designer Julien Macdonald OBE, who proved a popular personality with all at The Assembly Rooms.

YouTube make-up sensation Lauren Luke was the headline speaker on Friday at Northumbria University and also made an appearance at the Rox Royalty event at Rox Jewellers. The Northumbria University end-of-year show attracted international buyers and fashion pundits, while NE1's Newcastle Fashion Week closing party at Tup Tup Palace was a fittingly glitzy affair to round off the week. www.getintonewcastle.co.uk/nfw
